Subject: Stop discrimination against patients

Dear Planned Parenthood,

I'm writing about the proposed rule that allows providers and other health care workers to deny access to basic health care services, including -- though certainly not limited to -- transgender health services, abortion, and even birth control. This rule, coupled with the newly created "Conscience and Religious Freedom" division within the Office of Civil Rights, would turn the office charged with protecting people throughout the country from discrimination into an office that gives health care workers a license to discriminate against people, simply because of who they are or the services they seek.

If this rule is adopted, it would result in people not getting the care they need -- from people living with HIV seeking treatment to women seeking safe, legal abortions to LGBTQ patients getting basic care for themselves or their families.

This is an egregious attempt to promote discrimination and restrict access to health care, particularly for vulnerable communities that already have trouble accessing it. I urge you to withdraw this dangerous and shameful proposed rule and instead focus your office on protecting access to care.

Sincerely,
Ms. Janet Frank

I am a medical care provider. It is my duty to inform clients of all forms of options that are available to them and the potential consequences of each option. It is unethical and illegal to not provide the information for a client to have informed consent and the education to make the best health decisions. Please do not allow individual health care providers to make the decision what information and services they educate/provide to a client. If a person wants moral guidance they can go to their church or therapist. If they want services they should be able to go to any provider and be educated about ALL options.

This is an egregious attempt to promote discrimination and restrict access to health care, particularly for vulnerable communities that already have trouble accessing it. Health care workers must not be allowed to "pick and choose" who they want to serve. ALL people in the United States of America deserve 100% access to basic health care services without fear of discrimination because of the provider's beliefs. If a health care worker is unable to perform their job 100% due to their personal beliefs, they should remove themselves from this field of work and find a line of work that does not result in discriminating behavior.

I urge you to withdraw this dangerous and shameful proposed rule and instead focus your office on protecting access to care.

This rule, coupled with the newly created "Conscience and Religious Freedom" division within the Office of Civil Rights, would turn the office charged with protecting people throughout the country from discrimination into an office that gives health care workers a license to discriminate against people, simply because of who they are or the services they seek.

If this rule is adopted, it would result in people not getting the care they need -- from people living with HIV seeking treatment to women seeking safe, legal abortions to LGBTQ patients getting basic care for themselves or their families.

This is an egregious attempt to promote discrimination and restrict access to health care, particularly for vulnerable communities that already have trouble accessing it. I urge you to withdraw this dangerous and shameful proposed rule and instead focus your office on protecting access to care.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Cheryl Albert

Dear Planned Parenthood,

I'm writing about the proposed rule that allows providers and other health care workers to deny access to basic health care services, including -- though certainly not limited to -- transgender health services, abortion, and even birth control. This rule, coupled with the newly created "Conscience and Religious Freedom" division within the Office of Civil Rights, would turn the office charged with protecting people throughout the country from discrimination into an office that gives health care workers a license to discriminate against people, simply because of who they are or the services they seek.

Some folks learning of this proposed rule may not immediately be alarmed, assuming that it will not limit their own access to full and appropriate medical care. I hope that they will think twice and consider their friends and family members whose health care may soon be directly affected. I hope that they will look ahead and see that any one of us may find our medical care jeopardized in unforeseen ways if this sort of discrimination is allowed to stand. Please refocus on protecting and increasing full access to health care instead of further limiting access for many of our citizens.

If someone chooses to work as a healthcare provider, then it seems to me that providing health care is what they should do. If being a health care provider goes against their conscience or religion, then they should do something else for a living. Women and transgendered people need health care, like all human beings. Someone who feels squeamish about providing health care for women includes and transgendered people should probably clean toilets for a living.
