INTRODUCTION

Contrary to Farmer v. Brennan, 511 U.S. 825 (1994), and in callous disregard for Ms. Diamond’s health and safety, Defendants contend that prison officials can, and this Court should, ignore a victim of serial sexual assaults and pervasive sexual harassment who is at a substantial risk of continued sexual abuse because she has not documented physical injuries, because she has discipline violations, and because of filing “delay[s].” ECF 130 (“Opp’n”) at 5-12. Their arguments are unsupported in law. Farmer, 511 U.S. at 841-43, 845 (asking whether plaintiffs stand a “substantial risk of harm,” not whether they have physical injuries and a clean discipline record). Because Ms. Diamond “need not wait until she is raped again to seek relief from the Court,” Tay v. Dennison, 457 F. Supp. 3d 657, 690 (S.D. Ill. 2020), she respectfully requests that her motion for preliminary injunctive relief be granted.

ARGUMENT

Ms. Diamond has satisfied the requirements for preliminary injunctive relief and of the Prison Litigation Reform Act (“PLRA”), 18 U.S.C. § 3626(a)(1)(A), because she has shown: (1) a substantial likelihood of prevailing on the merits; (2) she will continue to suffer a “substantial threat” of irreparable harm absent an injunction; (3) the balance of equities favors relief; and (4) the public interest will not be disserved if the Court intercedes to prevent her suffering further assaults. Levi Strauss & Co. v. Sunrise Int’l Trading Inc., 51 F.3d 982, 985 (11th Cir. 1995) (quoting Church v. City of Huntsville, 30 F.3d 1332, 1342 (11th Cir. 1994)) (recognizing proof of certain victory is not required).

I. Ms. Diamond Has Demonstrated Her Likelihood of Success on the Merits.

Defendants’ blanket denials do not overcome the record evidence showing Defendants had subjective knowledge of Ms. Diamond’s substantial risk of sexual assault but responded “in an objectively unreasonable manner.” Rodriguez v. Sec’y for Dep’t of Corrs., 508 F.3d 611, 620 (11th Cir. 2007) (quoting Cottone v. Jenne, 326 F.3d 1352, 1358 (11th Cir. 2003)).

A. Prior Reported Assaults or Physical Injury Are Not Required Under Farmer.

Reports of sexual abuse, substantiated or otherwise, are not a prerequisite to satisfy deliberate indifference because “a prisoner seeking a remedy for unsafe conditions [need not] await a tragic event such as an actual assault before obtaining relief.” Farmer, 511 U.S. at 845 (quoting Helling v. McKinney, 509 U.S. 25, 33-34 (1993)) (cleaned up); accord Diamond v. Owens (“Diamond P”), 131 F. Supp. 3d 1346, 1377 (M.D. Ga. 2015) (Treadwell, J.) (“The Supreme Court in Farmer held that circumstantial evidence and the obviousness of the substantial risk of harm, not just actual notification, may be used to establish subjective awareness.”). Here, however, the record shows Defendants’ receipt of grievances, verbal and written PREA reports, mental health records, declarations, testimony, and witness statements detailing Ms. Diamond’s suffering sexual abuse. See ECF 50-1 at 3-6, 10-16; ECF 122 at 3, 5, 17-31 (collecting record cites); Mancil Decl. ¶¶ 18-21; see also Farmer, 511 U.S. at 842-43 (asking whether officials “had been exposed to information concerning the risk” or “the risk was obvious”).

Defendants nonetheless assert that Ms. Diamond is unworthy of Court protection because she has only reported one sexual assault since the hearing. Opp’n 2, 5. This assertion is not only irrelevant to the legal analysis, but it also is contrary to the evidence. Ms. Diamond reported several new sexual assaults and numerous instances of groping and touching, despite broken reporting equipment, threats from incarcerated people who perceive her to be a snitch, and growing despair about GDC’s PREA investigation process.¹ ECF 122-22; ECF 121 ¶¶ 2-21, 39. Indeed, as recently as January 2022, Ms. Diamond requested assistance from Defendants’ counsel to safely report new incidents of sexual abuse by making “arrangements for Ms. Diamond to make her report and be interviewed discreetly, outside of her dormitory.” Pl.’s Ex. 280 at 3. Instead, she was put in harm’s way when “approached by GDC staff about giving a PREA interview . . . in full view of everyone in her dormitory.” Id. at 1. Defendants also have not produced additional documentation of her PREA reports and attempted reports. ECF 121 ¶¶ 24-25; Mancil Decl. ¶¶ 18-21. Nor have Defendants opened an investigation into ongoing PREA violations Ms. Diamond reported, under oath, describing the pervasive sexual harassment and sexual abuse she endures at Coastal State Prison (“CSP”), including frequent groping. Hr’g Tr. 42:15-44:9, 60:21-61:22, 62:22-26, 73:11-15 (Diamond). Finally, Defendants’ arguments contradict their health care providers and PREA personnel who determined that Ms. Diamond’s abuse allegations were credible and justified her transfer away from CSP for “safety/victimization” reasons. ECF 122 at 18, 34-35 (collecting record citations).

Next, Defendants sidestep their Eighth Amendment obligations by advancing the chilling argument—contrary to law—that Ms. Diamond’s recurrent sexual assaults can be disregarded until she can show physical injuries rather than the resulting exhaustively documented suicidality, PTSD, and emotional scars. Opp’n 5-6; see also ECF 122 at 12-13, 33-35 (collecting record citations); Farmer, 511 U.S. at 845 (holding past harm is not a prerequisite for an injunction); Helling, 509 U.S. at 33-34 (same). Defendants’ suggestion that the Court follow their example and disregard Ms. Diamond’s requests for safekeeping until even more harm materializes to her is especially disturbing because it comes on the heels of Defendants settling the lawsuit of another incarcerated transgender woman who died by suicide. Elisha Fieldstadt, $2.2 million settlement for family of transgender woman who died in Georgia men’s prison, NBC NEWS (Dec. 7, 2021), <https://www.nbcnews.com/news/us-news/22-million-settlement-family-transgender-woman-died-georgia-mens-priso-rcna7867>.

Defendants do not dispute that they have failed to take a single action to address Ms. Diamond's safety concerns at CSP since the May 2021 hearing. Indeed, as the record shows:

- Defendants continue to house Ms. Diamond in an all-male dormitory alongside numerous gang members and sex offenders. ECF 121 ¶ 4; Mancil Decl. ¶¶ 4, 8, 13; Horne Decl. ¶ 9.
- Defendants closed and refused to reopen investigations that Ms. Diamond believed were merely "pending" until interviews with her counsel present could be arranged, even though Defendant Holt testified that PREA allegations have "no expiration date" and that Defendants could "look into" her prior claims. Hr'g Tr. 567:19-24 (Holt); ECF 122 at 24 (acknowledging right to counsel and outside advocates); Pl.'s Ex. 259 at DEF005318 (confirming representations about interview status and Ms. Diamond's reliance); Cantera Dep. Tr. 47:2-5 (same).
- Defendants abruptly terminated the security escorts Ms. Diamond relied on for safety after the hearing. ECF 122 at 32.
- Defendants continue to deny Ms. Diamond the ability to shower apart from male prisoners as required by PREA regulation, resulting in increased sexual harassment. 28 C.F.R. § 115.42(f); ECF 52 ¶¶ 33-34, 113.
- Defendants jeopardized Ms. Diamond's safety by ignoring her request to discretely report a PREA violation, deepening the perception that she is a snitch. Pl.'s Ex. 280 at 1-3.

These actions, coupled with those outlined in earlier submissions, ECF 122 at 22-23, and described below, show that Defendants acted in an objectively unreasonable manner by disregarding "alternative means that would have brought [Ms. Diamond's assault] risk to within constitutional norms." LaMarca v. Turner, 995 F.2d 1526, 1536 (11th Cir. 1993); accord Diamond I, 131 F. Supp. 3d at 1379 (holding Ms. Diamond stated a deliberate indifference claim where her "substantial risk of harm remained unabated, and [she] suffered further sexual assaults" due to Defendants' inaction).

B. Defendants' Cursory Investigations and Destruction of Video Evidence Demonstrate Deliberate Indifference.

Defendants argue that they have protected Ms. Diamond by placing her in a dormitory surveilled by “upgraded” cameras, ECF 77-2 ¶ 7; Hr’g Tr. 565:24-566:1, and fault her for offering “no evidence” of her assaults, Opp’n 5-6, yet they hypocritically do not explain their failure to properly investigate Ms. Diamond’s PREA allegations, including their failure to review or preserve relevant security camera footage that could have corroborated (or disproven) her allegations on at least seven occasions, see ECF 122 at 2-11, 20-26; Hr’g Tr. 565:24-566:11; ECF 77-2 ¶ 7, despite their litigation obligations. Fed. R. Civ. P. 37; ECF 120 ¶¶ 2-17. Defendants also do not explain the reason that they summarily dismissed nearly all of Ms. Diamond’s PREA allegations as disproven without pointing to a shred of contradictory evidence. ECF 122 at 6-10. Finally, Defendants offer no justification for closing investigations before speaking to third parties with relevant information—contrary to their own PREA policies. See ECF 122 at 23 (collecting record citations). Indeed, Defendants admit they dismissed another recent PREA report as unfounded before referring it for investigation. Opp’n 5 (citing ECF 120-48 to -49); see Goebert v. Lee Cnty., 510 F.3d 1312, 1328 (11th Cir. 2007) (“Choosing to deliberately disregard, without any investigation or inquiry, everything any inmate says amounts to willful blindness.”); De Veloz v. Miami-Dade Cnty., 756 F. App’x 869, 878 (11th Cir. 2018) (same). Defendants’ post-hearing conduct makes clear that whether or not Ms. Diamond provides additional details in PREA interviews, they have resolved to keep her exclusively in men’s prisons without regard to her safety.

C. Defendants’ Invidious Character Attacks and Attempts to Misconstrue the Law Also Demonstrate Deliberate Indifference.

In callous disregard for Ms. Diamond’s health and safety, Defendants devote the remainder of their brief to Ms. Diamond’s alleged disciplinary violations, which Ms. Diamond denies, which Defendants fail to support beyond a statement from an officer without personal knowledge, and most importantly, which are wholly irrelevant. Defendants’ constitutional duty to protect does not extend only to incarcerated people without disciplinary citations. See, e.g., Rodriguez, 508 F.3d at 620 (holding reasonable juror could find defendant subjectively knew of substantial risk of harm to plaintiff from gang members, even though plaintiff admitted to being former gang member). Nor does the Eighth Amendment import a “contributory negligence” standard such that prison rape is excused where an inmate allegedly “demonstrates a decided lack of concern for her own safety,” as Defendants suggest. Opp’n 9; see, e.g., Rodriguez, 508 F.3d at 620; Braggs v. Dunn, 257 F. Supp. 3d 1171, 1191-93 (M.D. Ala. 2017) (holding prison officials liable for inmate suicides without faulting the inmates for being suicidal), clarifying order, No. 2:14cv601, 2018 WL 5410915 (Oct. 29, 2018).

The notion that the Court should disregard Ms. Diamond’s sexual abuse allegations and risks due to her institutional record is more astounding given that Defendants were caught red-handed falsely designating Ms. Diamond as a PREA Aggressor; charging and convicting her of a major rule violation without reliable evidence, Hr’g Tr. 415:10-418:6; and citing the unfounded charge as their basis to deny her a female facility transfer, ECF 77 at 13. Defendants’ reliance on alleged discipline violations to absolve themselves of the duty to protect is especially galling since Defendants have refused to withdraw this specious Discipline Report (“DR”) despite its medical impossibility and the contradictory and unreliable testimony Defendants submitted to the Court. Hr’g Tr. 254:3-12, 255:18-25 (Court acknowledging “irreconcilable” testimony of alleged eyewitness and absence at DR hearing); ECF 90-3 ¶ 7; Ezie Decl. ¶ 2. Defendant Benton also admitted that numerous DRs leveled at Ms. Diamond were plagued by fatal defects, further undermining the credibility and reliability of the GDC disciplinary process or its alleged relevance to Ms. Diamond’s requests for protection from assault. Hr’g Tr. 415:10-418:6.

II. An Injunction Is Necessary and Will Advance the Public Interest.

Ms. Diamond has also shown that an injunction is warranted because she will continue to suffer irreparable harm without Court intervention. ECF 122 at 5, 13-14, 18 (collecting citations showing past and ongoing assaults, abuse, and harassment). An injury is irreparable “if it cannot be undone through monetary remedies.” Ferrero v. Associated Materials Inc., 923 F.2d 1441, 1449 (11th Cir. 1991) (quoting Cate v. Oldham, 707 F.2d 1176, 1189 (11th Cir. 1983)). Sexual abuse resulting in suicidality, emotional distress, and worsening PTSD meets this definition. See Tay, 457 F. Supp. 3d at 687 (holding transgender plaintiff “forced to endure constant sexual abuse and harassment at various men’s facilities” satisfied irreparable harm requirement); Hampton v. Baldwin, No. 3:18-cv-550, 2018 WL 5830730, at *15 (S.D. Ill. Nov. 7, 2018) (same); Edmo v. Corizon, Inc., 935 F.3d 757, 797-98 (9th Cir. 2019) (holding emotional distress, suicidality, and a self-harm risk constituted irreparable harm), cert. denied sub nom. Idaho Dep’t of Corr. v. Edmo, 141 S. Ct. 610 (2020). Defendants’ post-hearing conduct also makes clear that Defendants will not take affirmative steps to abate Ms. Diamond’s heightened risk of sexual assault at CSP without a Court directive. Farmer, 511 U.S. at 845 (analyzing “attitudes and conduct at the time suit is brought and persisting thereafter”).

Defendants claim “inaction” as an additional basis to deny relief, while also complaining that Ms. Diamond has “engaged in extensive and intensive document discovery,” Opp’n 10, ignoring countervailing authority and their role in any “delay.” A delay in seeking a preliminary injunction is not determinative, it “is but one factor in the irreparable harm analysis.” RoDa Drilling Co. v. Siegal, 552 F.3d 1203, 1211 (10th Cir. 2009); see also Ideal Indus., Inc. v. Gardner Bender, Inc., 612 F.2d 1018, 1025 (7th Cir. 1979) (explaining there is no “general rule that irreparable injury cannot exist if the plaintiff delays in filing its motion for a preliminary injunction”). As a court in the Eleventh Circuit recently noted, “each case hinges on the reason for the delay. Some cases have held a two-year delay excusable.” Dream Defs. v. DeSantis, No.

4:21cv191, 2021 WL 4099437, at *30 (N.D. Fla. Sept. 9, 2021) (citations omitted), appeal filed sub nom. Dream Defs. v. Governor of Fla., No. 21-13489 (11th Cir. Oct. 13, 2021). Moreover, “delay is less probative in the context of continuing injuries—especially constitutional injuries.” Id. (citation omitted). The procedural history of this case also has no bearing on the questions central to Farmer, which approved of injunctions to prevent ongoing “disregard [of inmate safety needs] during the remainder of the litigation and into the future.” 511 U.S. at 846.

Ironically, the procedural “delay[s]” Defendants fault Ms. Diamond for are largely “delay[s]” of their own creation. These include the period when Ms. Diamond attempted to resolve her health and safety concerns without Court involvement, only to be met by Defendants’ refusal. ECF 57 ¶¶ 12-14; ECF 120 ¶¶ 2-5; ECF 120-2 to -4, 120-28 to -29, 120-50 (showing nine notices seeking an out of court resolution). Then, Defendants and their staff informed Ms. Diamond that her release from GDC was imminent, which mooted her plan to file a preliminary injunction motion with her complaint. ECF 57 ¶¶ 27-30. When Ms. Diamond’s release date was postponed indefinitely due in part to DRs Defendant Benton issued that were later proven false, Ms. Diamond expeditiously moved to file the instant motion. Id. ¶ 30.

Defendants also fail to acknowledge they delayed production of documents responsive to Ms. Diamond’s April 2020 discovery requests, which would trigger the parties’ post-hearing briefing deadlines, for nearly seven months, until the Court set a firm deadline. See ECF 108; Oct. 29, 2021 Status Conference Tr. 22:13-23:23, 38:9-39:13 (ordering Defendants to complete productions within 30 days). Defendants’ gamesmanship should not be used to prejudice Ms. Diamond.

The balance of equities and the public interest—factors which merge where the government is the opposing party—also support the entry of an injunction here. Nken v. Holder, 556 U.S. 418, 434-35 (2009) (reciting standard). The harms to Ms. Diamond are the unspeakable horror of continued sexual abuse and assault as a woman in a men’s prison and her resulting suicidal ideation and PTSD. ECF 122 at 5, 13, 33-34 (collecting record citations). Juxtaposed are purely conclusory and speculative harms that Defendants are unable to identify with any particularity. Opp’n 13; Gonzalez v. Governor of Ga., 978 F.3d 1266, 1271-72 (11th Cir. 2020) (ordering injunctive relief where state did not show preventing “chaos and uncertainty” would ensue if granted). Indeed, Defendants fail to identify any harm from following their own policy of housing transgender people in facilities that align with their gender identities for safety reasons, instead arguing that they should be able to develop the record to articulate why following their policy here would “alter[] the operation of the state prison system.” Opp’n 15. Although Ms. Diamond carries the burden of persuasion, she does not have a duty to disprove the existence of vague or hypothetical harms not contained in the record. Gonzalez, 978 F.3d at 1272; accord Project Vote, Inc. v. Kemp, 208 F. Supp. 3d 1320, 1348-51 (N.D. Ga. 2016).

Finally, preliminary injunctive relief is appropriate here because “the public interest always is served when citizens’ constitutional rights are protected, including . . . offenders.” Reed v. Long, 420 F. Supp. 3d 1365, 1379 (M.D. Ga. 2019) (Treadwell, J.) (citation omitted), appeal dismissed sub nom. McClendon v. Long, 842 F. App’x 537 (Mem) (11th Cir. 2021); accord Tay, 457 F. Supp. 3d at 689 (“[I]t is in the public interest to ensure that [a transgender] Plaintiff’s constitutional rights are not violated by correctional officers.”).

III. Ms. Diamond’s Request for Injunctive Relief Comports with the PLRA.

Defendants’ argument that Ms. Diamond is seeking an extraordinary form of relief by requesting a transfer to a women’s facility for safety is inaccurate. The requested relief is already sanctioned by GDC’s written policies, ECF 120-25 at 9-13, and federal law, ECF 65 at 5-9; ECF 120-25 at 1; 28 C.F.R. § 115.42. It is also appropriately tailored injunctive relief under 18 U.S.C.

§ 3626 based on the factual record because safety transfers are a well-established PLRA remedy and Defendants have repeatedly failed to protect Ms. Diamond at CSP. Plata v. Brown, 427 F. Supp. 3d 1211, 1223 (N.D. Cal. 2013) (transfers are an available PLRA remedy).

Defendants' own health care providers and PREA personnel admit that CSP is unable to meet Ms. Diamond's health and safety needs, such that a facility change is required, and that Ms. Diamond's risk of sexual victimization would sharply decrease if she were transferred to a female GDC facility. See, e.g., ECF 122 at 18, 34-35 (collecting citations); ECF 78-1 at 2-3, 11; see ECF 58 ¶ 117 ("It is now medically necessary that she be transferred to a female correctional facility, where she will not be in danger of violent sexual assault by men"). Particularly given Defendants' admission no other male facilities are considered safe for Ms. Diamond, ECF 84-1 ¶ 4, this request is narrowly tailored to address her harm. See Armstrong v. Newsom, 475 F. Supp. 3d 1038, 1062 (N.D. Cal. 2020) (ordering PLRA transfer where "Defendants have not advanced any viable alternative means to protect [plaintiff's] rights").

Finally, although transfer to a female facility will best advance Ms. Diamond's health and safety needs, the Court may fashion other injunctive relief in its discretion such as an order instructing Defendants to develop an individualized plan that safeguards Ms. Diamond for the remainder of her incarceration. See Tay, 457 F. Supp. 3d at 688.

CONCLUSION

Because "[b]eing violently assaulted in prison is simply not part of the penalty" that incarcerated people should bear, Farmer, 511 U.S. at 834 (citation omitted), and because all prerequisites for injunctive relief have been met, Ms. Diamond's motion for preliminary injunctive relief should be granted and the Court should order Defendants to develop an individualized plan for addressing Ms. Diamond's health and safety needs, up to and including a facility transfer.

Respectfully submitted.

ASHLEY DIAMOND,

Plaintiff,

v.

TIMOTHY WARD, et al.,

Defendants.

No. 5:20-cv-00453-MTT

DECLARATION OF MICHAEL MANCIL

I, Michael Mancil, hereby declare as follows:

1. My name is Michael Mancil. I am currently held in the custody of the Georgia Department of Corrections (“GDC”) at Coastal State Prison (“Coastal”) in Savannah, Georgia.
2. I met Ashley Diamond about a year ago when I was moved to her dorm in N building and enrolled in the Evidence-Based Program. I was in that dormitory until November 2021.
3. My cell was on the same floor as Ashley Diamond’s cell, and on the opposite side of the hall.
4. That dormitory (N-Building) houses many sex offenders as well as gang members. I can tell a person’s gang affiliation based on tattoos, handshakes, and because they tell me or I hear them telling others.
5. Coastal State Prison is very understaffed. When in the dormitory, I rarely saw officers. For count, maybe one or two officers will do their job, but most are just pushovers and let the gang members tell them what to do.
6. Sometimes there are as few as three guards working the entire compound at night. You might not see an officer all night in N building.

7. The doors to enter the dormitory are often left open. People who are unauthorized to be in the dormitory enter all the time.
8. Inmates would come into the dorm and often look for Ashley Diamond, catcall her, and say rude and disrespectful things to her. They would go into her room and jump in the bed while she's asleep, trying to kiss her and touch her. Some of them I knew to be gang affiliated.
9. At night, the cell doors were not locked. Day and night, people go in and out of each other's cells. The officers were rarely around and, when they were, they would not do anything.
10. I rarely saw Ashley Diamond being accompanied by a security escort.

Sexual Harassment and Assaults

11. It is clear that Ashley Diamond is a woman. She has breasts and feminine mannerisms.
12. Most inmates were very perverted towards Ashley Diamond. When Ashley Diamond is around, she is often getting sexually harassed, abused or assaulted.
13. There were a few of us who tried to keep Ashley Diamond safe. We would check in with her. We would walk with her to chow and medical appointments. In the dormitory, we would stick together because we were outnumbered by sex offenders.
14. When walking to chow or medical appointments, I've seen Ashley Diamond get sexually harassed, abused and assaulted. Inmates often say sexual things, making comments about her body and saying what they wanted to do to her sexually. I've seen men walk up to her and grab her on the chest, pull her towards them, and try to kiss her.
15. I've seen people climb into Ashley Diamond's bed when she's sleeping about seven or eight times. It's never ending.

16. Sometime last year, Ashley Diamond and I were waiting by a locked gate in the yard. Often times, the gate along the way to and from the dormitory is locked and there is not an officer around to open it. When that happens, we are stuck in the yard until an officer comes around and can open the gate.
17. While in the yard, a bunch of inmates started pushing Ashley Diamond against the fence and grabbing her chest. I was trying to keep people away from her. She was scared for her life. I could see the anxiety on her face. Her voice changed, she was losing her breath, and she was panicking. There were no officers around at the time.

PREA Interview

18. In January 2022, several months after Ashley Diamond's attack, I was called in for a PREA interview with a GDC agent. The interview took place in a private room in the medical building.
19. The GDC agent told me he was there because of Ashley Diamond's PREA complaint and to get an understanding of what was happening with her.
20. I told him about the sexual harassment and assaults that I witnessed.
21. The interview lasted about 15 to 20 minutes. The interview was recorded with an audio recorder. The GDC agent had a pen and paper for notes.

Suicide Attempt

22. Being in our dormitory and facing constant sexual abuse and harassment has had a negative impact on Ashley Diamond.
23. In fall of last year, I walked into Ashley's Diamond's cell and saw her crying with a bunch of pills stacked in front of her. She had saved some medicine and was going to try to overdose.

24. I took the pills. I wouldn't leave them there with her.
25. After that, I would check in with her. We would talk about our struggles and she would often break down.

Retaliation

26. I was moved out of N building and the Evidence Based Program in November 2021 without reason. Everyone associated with Ashley Diamond who tries to protect her is kicked out of the dormitory.
27. I am now housed in K building. We don't have access to cleaning products to clean our rooms and it's so cold because the air conditioning is running in the wintertime. They won't give us blankets. We rarely get clothes or food. There are gang wars. I haven't slept in days. My bunkmate got stabbed just last night.
28. I believe GDC officers put me over here – essentially throwing me to the wolves – as they have for other men based on our befriending Ashley Diamond.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746, I hereby declare and state under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

February 16, 2022.

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ Michael Mancil*

No. 5:20-cv-00453-MTT

DECLARATION OF JIMMY WINDLE HORNE

I, Jimmy Windle Horne, declare under penalty of perjury that the following is true and correct:

1. My name is Jimmy Windle Horne. I am 48 years old. My GDC number is 0000679622. I am currently held in the custody of the Georgia Department of Corrections (“GDC”) at Coastal State Prison (“Coastal”) in Savannah, Georgia. Prior to that, I was held at Georgia Diagnostic and Classification State Prison (“GDCP”) in Jackson, Georgia, where I sometimes worked as a floor cleaner.

2. I met Ashley Diamond at GDCP, where we were housed together in the same unit, C House. I knew Ashley was transgender because she told me and because she had visible breasts. Our dormitory was not a safe environment. Incarcerated people with close and medium security designations were held together, and the cameras in the unit did not work.

3. One of the correctional officers at GDCP was Arneika Smith. She would often engage in inappropriate behavior with incarcerated people, including by propositioning them for sexual activities and by requesting that they send her money in exchange for favors. She once propositioned me, but I declined. I found Officer Smith’s behavior very shocking and inappropriate.

4. One day in May 2020 when I was working on my floor cleaning shift, I saw Officer Smith enter a staff bathroom with Ashley Diamond and close and lock the door behind them. At the time, I was cleaning floors just about five feet away from the staff bathroom door, so I could hear Officer Smith's keys jangle and turn in the lock.

5. Ashley was locked in the room with Officer Smith for about four to four-and-a-half hours. Near the end of that time, Officer Ridley tried to enter C House, but the gate was locked because Officer Smith was not at her post. Officer Ridley saw me through the gate and asked where Officer Smith was. I responded that Officer Smith was in the staff bathroom.

6. I saw Officer Ridley call for Officer Smith on the radio but there was no response. Afterwards, he left to get keys. When he returned, I saw Officer Ridley walk up to the staff bathroom where Officer Smith was locked in with Ashley. I saw Officer Smith start to exit the room, but I did not see Ashley. After that, we were all put on lockdown, so I did not see anything else.

7. No one at GDCP did anything to discipline or reprimand Officer Smith after she was discovered with Ashley, even though she was a very unprofessional and corrupt officer. Officer Smith continued working in our dorm at GDCP like nothing happened, and she was still working at the prison in December 2020 when I transferred from GDCP to Coastal.

8. Since I arrived at Coastal in December 2020, safety has been a constant issue. Conditions at Coastal are even worse than GDCP because human life means nothing to Coastal's wardens and staff.

9. Ashley and I were housed together in N-Building for a period of time at Coastal. The dorm we were held in was supposed to be a safe dorm, but we were housed with incarcerated people who were gang members and who had been convicted of sex offenses or had PREA records. Most of the time Ashley didn't have escorts. I also saw officers harass and mistreat her. I was able to speak to Ashley a little, and she feared for her life at Coastal.

10. Coastal State Prison is also extremely understaffed and the problem is getting worse. People are regularly attacked and even killed. I was recently stabbed and seriously injured in an attack, but it took the prison staff three hours to respond. My requests for protective custody were also denied, even though I had just been stabbed. Instead, an officer told me, "Whatever happens, happens." My attackers didn't even get disciplined by Coastal staff, even though I identified them.

11. I also have trouble getting access to necessary medical care, including insulin and other diabetes medication. I was recently sick with COVID-19, but I did not receive any treatment besides cough syrup. I have five staples in my head following my attack that were only removed after a long delay. I've also had trouble getting treatment for my heart condition, as well as basic necessities like toilet paper.

12. It is very difficult to submit grievances and complaints at Coastal in response to these issues. We often cannot even get access to the appropriate paperwork for submitting grievances and medical requests. When we do submit grievances and other requests, they often go unanswered. I am still waiting for a response to a grievance I filed with Officer Brandi Moore in November of last year.

13. Anyone who says that Coastal State Prison is the safest men's prison in GDC is not telling the truth.

14. There was a fatal stabbing here just on Saturday, February 12. Another incarcerated person's jaw was recently broken in an attack. In both instances, the wardens and staff did not respond. It's like no one cares.

15. Of all the GDC facilities I have been to over the years, Coastal is the absolute worst.

16. Coastal is so unsafe that it needs to be closed.

17. Although I'm worried about being retaliated against, I feel it is important that people know what's going on here.

DECLARATION OF A. CHINYERE EZIE

I, A. Chinyere Ezie, declare under penalty of perjury that the following is true and correct:

1. I am a Senior Staff Attorney at the Center for Constitutional Rights and one of Plaintiff Ashley Diamond's attorneys.

2. Following the Parties' hearing on May 13-14, 2021, Counsel for Plaintiff contacted Counsel for Defendants to inquire whether Defendants would withdraw or expunge the disciplinary report (DR) they issued Ms. Diamond accusing her of engaging in penetrative sex with John Doe. To date, however, they have refused to act. So upon information and belief, the John Doe disciplinary report remains part of Ms. Diamond's institutional record to this day.

3. On January 28, 2022, I personally contacted Defendants, through their attorney, to notify them that Ashley Diamond had suffered additional PREA incidents in her dormitory at Coastal State Prison.

4. I notified Defendants' attorney that Ms. Diamond had attempted to report the PREA incident using multiple means, but that she was currently being threatened by inmates who perceived her to be a snitch.

5. I asked Defendants, through their attorneys, to engage a retaliation monitor for Ms. Diamond's protection. I also asked whether Defendants could make arrangements for Ms. Diamond to complete her PREA reports and PREA interviews discreetly.

6. I also asked Defendants, through their counsel, to identify the steps they would take to prevent Ms. Diamond from being subjected to further retaliation in connection with her PREA reports on two occasions, but they did not respond.

7. Instead, Ms. Diamond was approached by GDC officials in a manner that jeopardized her safety by heightening the perception that she is a snitch. Upon information and belief, a retaliation monitor was never assigned.

8. On February 14, 2022, Ms. Diamond experienced another PREA incident in her dormitory at Coastal State Prison and reported the incident to GDC personnel.

9. Attached to this declaration are true and correct copies of the following

Diamond v. Ward: Additional PREA Incidents at Coastal State Prison

Hi Roger,

Just to follow up:

Unfortunately, Ms. Diamond was just approached by GDC staff about giving a PREA interview while in full view of everyone in her dormitory. This is the precise situation my email to you was intended to avoid. Such actions place her in danger and legitimate fear of retaliation because, as I pointed out to you in my email, it heightens the perception that Ms. Diamond is a "snitch." This was really an unforced error on the part of GDC.

Further, I did not anticipate that my request would result in placing Ms. Diamond in danger. I asked "Would it be possible for you to make arrangements for Ms. Diamond to make her report and be interviewed discreetly, outside of her dormitory--perhaps under the auspices of having an appointment with medical? And can a retaliation monitor be engaged at this time?" I am at a loss to understand why you could not provide me with the courtesy of answers to my questions before placing Ms. Diamond in harm's way.

I am equally as perplexed as to why your clients are unwilling to provide a safety plan for Ms. Diamond, engage a retaliation monitor, or otherwise take precautions that would allow Ms. Diamond an opportunity to participate in the PREA process without attracting additional scrutiny from the very people threatening her with harm.

As I expressed in my original email, Ms. Diamond simply requests the opportunity to report her PREAs in a confidential and safe manner. Please let me know what if any precautions your clients are willing to take upfront to prevent further harm and whether a retaliation monitor can be engaged at this time to address her legitimate safety concerns.

Thanks and best,

Chinyere Ezie

I have been told this is being addressed to allow your client to make the report discreetly. Staff will also monitor to make sure there is no retaliation.

Thanks Roger.

But please relay to the Warden Ms. Diamond's retaliation concerns.

Given Ms. Diamond's recent labeling as a snitch and the safety threats that ensued, we cannot proceed until we have clarity on the anti-retaliation measures that will be put in place.

Thanks,

Hi Roger,

I write to let you know that unfortunately, our client Ashley Diamond has suffered additional PREA incidents in her dormitory at Coastal State Prison.

Ms. Diamond has spoken to MH personnel at Coastal about these incidents and attempted to make a companion PREA report in writing; however, she was observed while trying to complete her written report and is now being threatened by inmates who have labeled her a snitch.

Ms. Diamond would like the opportunity to complete her PREA report, but her safety remains a paramount concern.

Would it be possible for you to make arrangements for Ms. Diamond to make her report and be interviewed discreetly, outside of her dormitory--perhaps under the auspices of having an appointment with medical? And can a retaliation monitor be engaged at this time?

Thanks and if it would be easier to discuss these matters by telephone, feel free to dial me at the number below.

Best,

Chinyere
