ORDER

A preliminary review of the short record indicates that the order appealed from may not be ready for appellate review. Here's why.

In their notice of appeal, appellants state that they seek review of the district court's order issued on April 29, 2022. That order granted plaintiff's motion for a preliminary injunction. But, the district court has to date failed to enter the injunction as a separate document under Rule 65 (d)(1)(C). See generally Seventh Circuit Practitioner's Handbook (2020 ed.) at pp. 56-57. Accordingly,

IT IS ORDERED that appellants and appellee file, on or before May 18, 2022, a brief memorandum stating why the parties should not return to the district court to seek and obtain an injunction order that complies with the requirement of Fed. R. Civ. P. 65 (d)(1)(C). See Cf. Quincy Bioscience, LLC v. Ellishbrooks, 957 F.3d 725, 728 n.17 (7th Cir. 2020) (court issued a limited remand for parties to seek an injunction that complies with Rule 65 (d)(1)(C).); MillerCoors LLC v. Anheuser-Busch Companies, LLC 940 F.3d 922 (7th Cir. 2019) (per curiam) (same).
