I. INTRODUCTION

2 Plaintiff teachers, employed by Escondido Unified School District ("EUSD"), 3 seek to enjoin the State Superintendent of Public Instruction ("SPI"), head of the 4 California Department of Education ("CDE"), and members of the State Board of 5 Education ("SBE") -- all state officials sued in their official capacity – from “interfering 6 in any way, including by taking action against the EUSD Defendants, with [the teachers’] 7 ability to communicate with the parents of transgender or gender diverse students.” 8 However, the Complaint neither alleges that any of these officials acting in their official 9 capacity (collectively, the “State-level Defendants”) have done so in the past nor that they 10 are likely to do so in the future. In fact, the Complaint affirmatively alleges that there is 11 no connection between any State-level Defendant and any past or prospective harm to 12 Plaintiffs. The only claim related to a State-level Defendant or their agency is Plaintiffs’ 13 allegation that the local school district identified a CDE web page in support of its 14 administrative regulation concerning transgender students. Because that is an 15 insufficient basis for jurisdiction over any of the State-level Defendants, much less the 16 extraordinary injunctive relief Plaintiffs seek against them, the Court should deny this 17 motion.¹

18 19 20 21 22 ¹ Plaintiffs’ Complaint repeatedly demonstrates the lack of connection between their 23 claims and any action by the State-level defendants. Indeed, while Plaintiffs’ Complaint 24 curiously references Fed. R. Civ. P. 19(a)(1)(B) on “required” joinder, Dkt. 1, p. 10, ¶¶ 25 33, 35, Plaintiffs fail to plead facts that would support the application of the rule to the 26 State-level Defendants. Compare Fed. R. Civ. P. 19(a)(1)(B) (“A person who is subject 27 to service of process and whose joinder will not deprive the court of subject-matter 28 jurisdiction must be joined as a party if ... that person claims an interest relating to the subject of the action”) with Compl. ¶¶ 33, 35 (the officers of the CDE and the members of the SBE “are sued here solely under Fed. R. Civ. P. 19(a)(1)(B), to the extent that they claim an interest relating to the subject matter of the action for which their joinder is practically important.”)

1 To begin, Plaintiffs are unlikely to succeed on the merits of their underlying 2 complaint as to them because: 1) Plaintiffs cannot establish Article III standing as to 3 their Section 1983 claims against the State-level Defendants and 2) the State-level 4 Defendants are immune from this lawsuit under the Eleventh Amendment.

5 Further, Plaintiffs fail to demonstrate how they will suffer irreparable harm if the 6 requested injunction is not granted as against the SPI and SBE members. Also, the 7 balance of the equities tips in the State-level Defendants' favor and the granting of an 8 injunction against the SPI and members of the SBE would not serve the public interest.
9 Finally, the injunction sought is unconstitutionally vague.

10 Accordingly, the requested preliminary injunction against the State-level 11 Defendants should be denied.

12 II. BACKGROUND

13 The Complaint (Dkt. 1) alleges as follows: EUSD required that teachers refer to 14 transgender or gender-nonconforming students by their preferred names and pronouns.
15 EUSD required that teachers decline to disclose to parents, without the student's 16 permission, whether a student had decided to "socially transition" and present at school 17 as a different gender. Plaintiffs sought and received a religious accommodation related to 18 the use of student-preferred pronouns, but they were denied a religious accommodation 19 related to disclosure to parents.

20 The sole factual allegation as to any State-level actor in the 64-page Complaint is 21 that the CDE posted Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) on its website, addressing 22 gender-identity issues. Complaint, Dkt. 1, p. 46, ¶ 189, ll. 20-23. There are no factual 23 allegations made against the members of the SBE, either with respect to the FAQs or 24 otherwise. Moreover, Plaintiffs affirmatively assert that these FAQs, regardless of what 25 they say, were not binding on EUSD. Dkt. 1, p. 23.

26 Plaintiffs assert multiple claims against EUSD under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 (Section 27 1983) alleging violations of the Free Speech and Free Exercise of Religion clauses of the 28 First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The only cause of action that specifically 1 references any State-level Defendant is the Fourth Cause of Action for declaratory relief.

2 Complaint, Dkt. 1, p. 63.

3 The Complaint seeks (1) a declaration that EUSD's policies and the CDE's FAQs 4 violate the Constitution, (2) injunctive relief barring EUSD from enforcing its policies 5 relating to transgender or gender-nonconforming students; (3) nominal and actual 6 damages; and (4) attorney's fees and costs. Complaint, Dkt. 1, p. 64.

7 8 III. LEGAL STANDARD

9 A preliminary injunction is an extraordinary and drastic remedy that is never 10 awarded as of right. Munaf v Geren, 553 U.S. 674, 689-690 (2008). To obtain a 11 preliminary injunction pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (Fed. R. Civ. P.) 65, 12 Plaintiffs must show (1) they are likely to succeed on the merits, (2) they will likely 13 suffer irreparable harm if the injunction is not granted, (3) the balance of equities tips in 14 the Plaintiffs' favor and (4) an injunction is in the public interest. Winter v. Natural 15 Resources Defense Council, 555 U.S. 7, 20 (2008). Where the government is a party to 16 a case in which an injunction is sought, the last two factors merge. Drakes Bay Oyster 17 Co. v. Jewell, 747 F.3d 1073, 1092 (9th Cir. 2014). Plaintiffs, as the movants, bear the 18 burden of proving each of these elements. Klein v. San Clemente, 584 F.3d 1196, 1201 19 (9th Cir. 2009). Because likelihood of success is a threshold inquiry, when a plaintiff 20 has failed to show it, the court need not consider the remaining three Winter elements.
21 Garcia v. Google, Inc., 786 F.3d 733, 740 (9th Cir. 2015).

22 IV. ARGUMENT

23 A. Plaintiffs are Unlikely to Succeed on the Merits of Their Claims.

24 Injunctive relief should be denied because Plaintiffs are unlikely to succeed on the 25 merits of their Section 1983 claims against the State-level Defendants because they fail 26 to plead facts necessary to establish standing under Article III of the U.S. Constitution 27 and because the suit against the SPI and SBE members in their official capacities is 28 barred by the Eleventh Amendment.

1 Plaintiffs make no allegation connecting the SBE members in their official 2 capacities to any deprivation of First Amendment rights. Individual members of the SBE 3 are not authorized to act alone, Cal. Educ. Code § 33010. An official capacity suit 4 against each SBE member is the equivalent of suing the SBE as an entity. While 5 Plaintiffs seemingly conflate SBE and CDE by styling the State-level Defendants as 6 “CDE Defendants”, SBE and CDE are distinct entities. (See footnote 4 below.) Yet the 7 Complaint cites no action taken by the SBE that has interfered with Plaintiffs’ Mirabelli 8 and West ability to communicate with the parents of transgender children in EUSD.

9 Likewise, the SPI is vested with all executive and administrative functions of the 10 CDE as its Chief Executive Officer. Cal. Educ. Code §§ 33301-33307. Accordingly, a 11 suit against the SPI in his official capacity is the equivalent of a suit against the CDE.
12 Yet here again, Plaintiffs’ complaint fails to identify a single act by either the SPI or the 13 CDE that has deprived them of First Amendment rights for the purposes of Section 14 1983.

15 1. Plaintiffs do not have standing to sue the State-level Defendants.

16 For a case to be litigated in federal court there must be “actual, ongoing 17 controversies.” Honig v. Doe, 484 U.S. 305, 317 (1988); U.S. Constitution, Article III.
18 Courts may not render advisory opinions. North Carolina v. Rice, 404 U.S. 244, 246 19 (1971).

20 The Supreme Court has set forth a three-part test for determining whether a 21 plaintiff has met the threshold burden of showing standing. See Lujan v. Defenders of 22 Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 560-561 (1992). First, the plaintiff must have suffered a concrete 23 injury in fact. Second, there must be a causal connection between the injury and the 24 conduct complained of. That is, the injury has to be fairly traceable to the challenged 25 action of the defendant. Third, it must be likely, as opposed to merely speculative, that 26 the injury will be redressed by a favorable decision. Id. Plaintiffs have the burden of 27 establishing all three elements. Id. at 561. As explained below, Plaintiffs fail to meet 28

1 the second and third requirements for showing standing against the State-level 2 Defendants.

3 That is, the Complaint lacks sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 4 plausibly -- not merely possibly -- allow the reasonable inference that there is a causal 5 connection between the alleged injury and any conduct of the State-level Defendants, or 6 that the alleged harm will be redressed by the requested remedy as to the State-level 7 Defendants. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678-679 (2005); see Terenkian v. Republic 8 of Iraq, 694 F.3d 1122, 1131 (9th Cir. 2012) (applying this Iqbal standard to a motion to 9 dismiss under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1).

10 a. The Complaint does not plausibly allege a causal connection between 11 the alleged injury and any challenged state action.

12 13 As stated above, the only factual allegation against any State-level actor is that the 14 CDE published FAQs relating to gender identity on its website. Complaint, Dkt. 1, ¶ 15 189. There are no factual allegations against the SBE or its members with respect to the 16 FAQs. Plaintiffs also affirmatively assert that these FAQs were not binding on EUSD.
17 Id., ll. 23-23; see also Cal. Educ. In other words, Plaintiffs argue that EUSD could, and 18 did, establish its own administrative regulation that is the subject of this lawsuit.

19 The Complaint contains no factual allegations as to any interaction of any kind 20 between any State-level Defendant and either Plaintiffs or EUSD. The Complaint 21 contains no allegations that the State-level Defendants employed the Plaintiffs, nor could 22 it properly do so.

27
28

1 In California, a local educational agency such as EUSD employs its own teachers.
2 Cal. Educ. Code §§ 33300, 35010, 35020, 35035, 44830–44929.² The Complaint does 3 not allege that the State-level Defendants imposed any requirements on Plaintiffs 4 relating to communications either at school or with parents as to transgender or non-5 conforming students. The Complaint does not allege that the State-level Defendants 6 denied Plaintiffs any requested religious accommodation. In summary, the Complaint 7 fails to establish any nexus between the alleged injury and any conduct of the State-level 8 Defendants. Therefore, the Complaint as to the State-level Defendants is subject to 9 dismissal for lack of standing under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1), and Plaintiffs are unlikely 10 to succeed on the merits.

11 b. The Complaint does not plausibly allege that Plaintiffs’ alleged injury 12 will be redressed by the remedy that they seek.

13 14 As to the State-level Defendants, the only remedy sought in the complaint is an 15 order declaring that the CDE’s FAQ page violates the First Amendment to the 16 Constitution. See Dkt. 1, p. 64, ll. 7-9. There is no remedy sought against the members 17 of the SBE, a legally distinct entity. Moreover, as noted above, Plaintiffs assert that the 18 CDE’s FAQs are not binding on EUSD. See Dkt. 1, p. 46, ¶189. Even if the court 19 granted this declaratory relief, it would not address the alleged harm arising from 20 EUSD’s alleged failure to grant a religious accommodation to Plaintiffs in relation to 21 EUSD’s own policies on protection from discrimination based on gender identity.
22 Plaintiffs fail to meet their burden that it is likely, as opposed to merely speculative, that 23

25 ² It is clear under state law that the state is not liable for the alleged wrongs of local 26 school districts or their employees. Johnson v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist., 217 Cal.
27 App. 3d 692, 699 (1990); Gonzales v. State, 29 Cal. App. 3d 585, 592 (1972).
28

1 the requested declaration as to the CDE’s FAQs would result in EUSD either amending 2 its policies in the manner sought by Plaintiffs or granting Plaintiffs a further religious 3 accommodation from such policies. ³ See Lujan, 504 U.S. at 561.

4 Because the only relief sought against the State-level Defendants is declaratory 5 relief as to the CDE’s FAQs, such a declaration would constitute an impermissible 6 advisory opinion. Absent a true case or controversy, a complaint for declaratory relief is 7 subject to dismissal under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1) for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.
8 Rhoades v. Avon Products, Inc., 504 F.3d 1151, 1167 (9th Cir. 2007). A claim for 9 declaratory relief, standing alone, is insufficient to confer jurisdiction. Martinez v.
10 Newsom, 46 F.4th 965, 972 (9th Cir. 2022), cert. denied, 2023 WL 3046151 (2023).

11 There is no controversy between the teacher Plaintiffs in this case and the SPI or 12 SBE members in their official capacities. Plaintiffs do not allege that the CDE’s FAQs 13 harmed them, and by conceding that the CDE’s FAQs are non-binding, they cannot.

14 In summary, the Complaint fails to establish that Plaintiffs’ alleged injury will be 15 redressed by the declaratory relief sought as to State-level Defendants. The claim for 16 declaratory relief relating to the CDE’s FAQs, standing alone, is insufficient to confer 17 standing as it would result in an impermissible advisory opinion. Therefore, the 18 Complaint as to the State-level Defendants is subject to dismissal for lack of standing 19 under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1), and Plaintiffs are unlikely to succeed on the merits.

20 2. The Eleventh Amendment Bars Plaintiffs’ Section 1983 Claims against the 21 State-level Defendants.

22 The Eleventh Amendment provides as follows:

23 The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed 24 to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or 25

26
27 28 ³For example, the Complaint does not allege that the CDE’s FAQs address the issue of religious accommodation.

1 prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of 2 another state, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state.

3 Through the Eleventh Amendment, a state is immune from suit brought in federal 4 court by its citizens or citizens of another state. Papasan v. Allain, 478 U.S. 265, 275 5 (1986); Pennhurst State School & Hospital v. Halderman, 465 U.S. 89, 99 (1984). That 6 immunity extends to a state's agencies. Krainski v. State ex rel. Bd. of Regents, 616 F.3d 7 963, 967 (9th Cir. 2010). In California, the "State" includes state offices, officers, 8 departments, boards and agencies. Cal. Gov't. Code § 900.6. The Complaint 9 acknowledges that the California Department of Education and State Board of Education 10 are such state entities. See Dkt. 1, p. 10, ¶¶ 33, 35.⁴

11 The Eleventh Amendment bars suits against state agencies in federal court unless 12 the State has waived its immunity. Will v. Michigan Dept. of State Police, 491 U.S. 58, 13 66 (1989). The Supreme Court has held that Congress must make its intent to abrogate 14 state immunity "unmistakably clear in the language of the statute." Atascadero State 15 Hospital v. Scanlon, 473 U.S. 234, 242 (1985). That immunity was not abrogated by 16 Section 1983 itself, and California has not waived its immunity to Section 1983 suits.
17 Quern v. Jordan, 440 U.S. 332, 344-45 (1979); Brown v. Calif. Dept. of Corr., 554 F.3d 18 747, 752 (9th Cir. 2009); Dittman v. California, 191 F.3d 1020, 1026 (9th Cir. 1999).

19 Furthermore, when public servants such as the SPI and the SBE members are sued 20 in their official capacity, they enjoy the same Eleventh Amendment immunity as the 21

22
23 ⁴ The California Constitution establishes the office of the SPI. Cal. Const. art. IX, § 2.
24 The SPI functions as the CDE's Chief Executive Officer. Cal. Educ. Code §§ 33301-25 33307. The California Constitution also provides for a State Board of Education. Cal.
26 Const. Art. IX, § 7. The members are appointed by the Governor. Cal. Educ. Code 27 §§ 33000, 33000.5. SBE members are state officials appointed to a board that is 28 mandated by the California state constitution and are tasked with state-level duties. See Bols v. Newsom, 515 F. Supp. 3d 1120, 1135 (S.D. Cal. 2021).

1 state government entities they represent. See Hafer v. Melo, 502 U.S. 21, 25, 112 2 (1991); Krainski, 616 F. 3d at 967. Section 1983 claims against state officials in their 3 official capacity as employees of these agencies are barred by the Eleventh Amendment 4 because they are duplicative of pleading an action against the state agency itself.
5 Kentucky v. Graham, 473 U.S. 159, 165 (1985). Also, for purposes of suits under 6 Section 1983, a state, its agencies, and its officials acting in their official capacity are not 7 considered “persons” subject to suit. Will, 491 U.S. at 70-71 (1989); Wolfe v.
8 Strankman, 392 F.3d 358, 364-65 (9th Cir. 2004).

9 Plaintiffs may seek to invoke the Ex Parte Young exception to Eleventh 10 Amendment immunity, but the Complaint does not plausibly allege facts to support its 11 application here. The Ex Parte Young doctrine provides a limited exception that allows 12 a Section 1983 action to proceed against a state official sued in their official capacity if 13 the action only seeks prospective injunctive relief to address an ongoing violation of 14 federal law (as opposed to remedying past unlawful conduct) and the official has a 15 sufficient connection with the law and direct responsibility for enforcing it. Papasan, 16 478 U.S. at 277-278. See also Ex Parte Young (1908) 209 U.S. 123, 126. For the 17 exception to apply, a plaintiff “must point to threatened or ongoing unlawful conduct by 18 a particular governmental officer. The doctrine does not allow a plaintiff to circumvent 19 sovereign immunity by naming some arbitrarily chosen governmental officer with only 20 general responsibility for governmental policy.” Jamul Action Committee v.
21 Simermeyer, 974 F.3d 984, 994 (9th Cir. 2020).

22 Here, Plaintiffs’ 64-page complaint challenges the policies of their employer 23 EUSD, which is solely responsible for promulgating them. The Complaint does not 24 allege that the State-level Defendants had or have any hand in developing, adopting, 25 implementing, enforcing or considering religious accommodations in relation to EUSD’s 26 challenged policies that are at issue here. The Complaint contains one factual allegation 27 as to any State-level actor -- that CDE published FAQs that Plaintiffs affirmatively assert 28 were not binding on EUSD. In fact, Plaintiffs fail to state any facts connecting the 1 members of the SBE or the SPI to a relevant role beyond the generalized allegations that 2 they happen to be involved in public education at the state level. Mecinas v. Hobbs 30 3 F.4th 890, 903–904 (9th Cir. 2022).

4 For these reasons, Plaintiffs’ claims against the State-level Defendants are barred 5 by the Eleventh Amendment, and the Ex Parte Young exception does not apply.

6 Therefore, Plaintiffs’ claims are subject to dismissal for failure to state a claim pursuant 7 to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6), and Plaintiffs are unlikely to succeed on the merits.⁵

8 B. Plaintiffs Will not Suffer Irreparable Harm if the Injunction is Denied.

9 Because Plaintiffs have failed to demonstrate likelihood of success on the merits, 10 it is unnecessary to address the other Winter elements. Garcia v. Google, Inc., 786 F.3d 11 at 740. In any event, those elements weigh in the State-level Defendants’ favor too.

12 Irreparable harm is “harm for which there is no adequate legal remedy, such as an 13 award for damages”. East Bay Sanctuary Covenant v. Biden, 993 F.3d 640, 677 (9th 14 Cir. 2021).

15 Plaintiffs fail to identify a single threatened action by any named State-level 16 Defendant that, if not enjoined, would cause irreparable harm to them. Plaintiffs seek to 17 enjoin State-level Defendants from “interfering in any way, including by taking action 18 against the EUSD Defendants, with [the teachers’] ability to communicate with the 19 parents of transgender or gender diverse students,” but they fail to allege that the State-20 level Defendants have done so in the past or are likely to do so in the future. Rather, the 21 entirety of Plaintiffs’ argument in this regard arises from their allegations that they 22 currently suffer from a loss of First Amendment freedoms and “emotional stress, 23 depression and reduced sense of well-being, as a result of the coercive pressure to violate

26 ⁵ The State-level Defendants recognize that the Ninth Circuit has held that the Eleventh 27 Amendment defense is quasi-jurisdictional and may be raised alternatively in a motion 28 under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1). Sato v. Orange County Dept. of Educ., 861 F.3d 923, 927 n. 2 (9th Cir. 2017), cert. denied, 138 S. Ct. 459 (2017).

1 their religious beliefs or lose their job.” Dkt. 5-1, pp. 23-24. Nevertheless, these harms 2 arise solely from their employment relationship with EUSD and within that context.
3 Tellingly, the only reference in Plaintiffs’ Motion to the State-level Defendants is a 4 footnote in which Plaintiffs explain that because EUSD “has contended that its policies 5 simply follow the guidance” of the CDE, Plaintiffs Mirabelli and West request that the 6 injunction encompass the State-level Defendants. Dkt. 5-1, p. 2, n. 2. But Plaintiffs 7 themselves do not allege that the State-level Defendants have directly harmed them or 8 will do so in the future.

9 In the absence of relevant actual allegations, any harm caused to Plaintiffs 10 attributable to the State-level Defendants is speculative. “Mere [s]peculative injury does 11 not constitute irreparable injury sufficient to warrant granting a preliminary 12 injunction.” Caribbean Marine Servs. Co., Inc. v. Baldrige, 844 F.2d 668, 674 (9th Cir.
13 1988). “[A] plaintiff must demonstrate immediate threatened injury as a prerequisite to 14 preliminary injunctive relief.” Id; see also Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Comm'n v.
15 National Football League, 634 F.2d 1197, 1201 (9th Cir.1980); Boardman v.
16 Pac. Seafood Grp., 822 F.3d 1011, 1022 (9th Cir. 2016).

17 Further, a plaintiff must also show a “sufficient causal connection” between the 18 alleged injury and the conduct that it is seeking to enjoin such that an injunction 19 effectively minimizes the risk of injury. Perfect 10, Inc. v. Google, Inc. (9th Cir. 2011) 20 653 F.3d 976, 982 (9th Cir. 2011); see Garcia v. Google, Inc., 786 F.3d at 745. Here, 21 even if the court were to grant Plaintiffs’ injunction as to the State-level Defendants, 22 they cannot show it would minimize the harms they allege in the form of emotional 23 distress and potential adverse employment action by EUSD. Simply put, an order 24 restraining the SPI and SBE members in their official capacities from “interfering” with 25 the Plaintiff teachers’ ability to communicate with the parents of transgender pupils 26 would not address Plaintiffs’ concerns regarding EUSD’s policies and EUSD’s 27 application of those policies to Plaintiffs.

28 ///

1 Accordingly, Plaintiffs fail to establish that they will be irreparably harmed by a 2 denial of their requested injunctive relief as against the State-level Defendants. For this 3 additional reason, the motion should be denied.

4 C. The Balance of Equities Tips in the State-Level Defendants' Favor and an 5 Injunction is not in the Public Interest.

6 Because Plaintiffs are unlikely to succeed on the merits, it is not necessary to 7 address the balance of equities and the public interest. Garcia v. Google, Inc., 786 F.3d 8 at 740. Nevertheless, both factors favor the State-level Defendants. Enjoining a 9 constitutionally elected state official and appointed members of a state board from 10 engaging in undefined actions and speech absent a single allegation of prior or 11 prospective interference with the Plaintiffs' First Amendment rights would 12 impermissibly impact and undermine the ability of the State-level Defendants to freely 13 conduct their daily governmental and administrative functions. For this additional 14 reason, the motion should be denied.

15 D. The Requested Injunction is Unconstitutionally Vague.

16 “A restraining order is unconstitutionally vague if it fails to give clear guidance 17 regarding the types of speech for which an individual may be punished.” Levine v. U.S.
18 Dist. Court for Cent. Dist. of California, 764 F.2d 590, 599 (9th Cir. 1985). Injunctive 19 relief must be tailored to remedy the specific harm alleged. Stormans, Inc. v. Selecky, 20 586 F.3d 1109, 1140 (9th Cir. 2009). “An overbroad injunction is an abuse of 21 discretion.” Id. An order granting a preliminary injunction must “state its terms 22 specifically” and “describe in reasonable detail . . . the act or acts restrained or required” 23 as required by Fed. R. Civ. P. 65 (d)(1)(B) and (C); see also Vuitton Et Fils S.A. v. J.
24 Young Enterprises, Inc., 644 F.2d 769, 779 (9th Cir. 1981). The basic principle in Rule 25 65(d) is that “those against whom an injunction is issued should receive fair and 26 precisely drawn notice of what the injunction actually prohibits.” In re Nat'l Collegiate 27 Athletic Ass'n Athletic Grant-in-Aid Cap Antitrust Litig., 958 F.3d 1239, 1263 (9th Cir.
28 2020).

1 Here, the requested injunction seeks an order from the court enjoining state 2 officials from “interfering in any way” with Plaintiffs’ right to communicate with 3 “parents of transgender or gender diverse students.” See Dkt. 5, p.2, ll. 7-10. It is 4 impossible for the State-level Defendants to determine what actions could be considered 5 to constitute such “interference” under this subjective and overbroad standard. Given 6 the absence of any parameters governing the injunctive relief sought against the State-7 level Defendants, if granted, it would constitute an over-reaching infringement on the 8 ability of the state officials to perform their constitutionally and statutorily mandated 9 duties.

10 Such an injunction would leave the constitutionally elected SPI and 11 gubernatorially-appointed SBE members subject to insufficient notice regarding the 12 conduct that is forbidden. In re Nat’l Collegiate Athletic Ass’n Athletic Grant-in-Aid 13 Cap Antitrust Litig., 958 F.3d at 1263. This proposed injunction neither adequately 14 defines the persons protected nor the conduct prohibited. As such, it is 15 unconstitutionally vague and must be denied.
